Leathernecks Fight Way to Palace Gates, Supported by Dive-Bombing Planes in Deadliest Struggle of the Three-Month Korean War — North Korea's 100,000
Invasion Army in South is in State of Mass Flight.

By Howard Handelman
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)
TOKYO, Sept. 25—(INS)—Tank-led U. S. Marines, pacing a four-pronged assault to complete the liberation of Seoul, reached the Duksoo Palace in the flaming heart of Korea's capital today against savage resistance by Communist troops.

Supported by dive bombing planes, the Leathernecks fought their way to the gates of the palace
after ramming into Seoul's blazing core from the west in the deadliest struggle of the three-month-old Korean war.

Other Marine and U. S. Army forces were hammering into Seoul from the northwest, southwest and south.

As the Seoul battle neared its climax, U. S. First Cavalry Division troops raced another 26 miles northward beyond the former United Nations beachhead perimeter in southeast Korea.

They dashed into Chochiwon
from Poun to narrow the gap between the First Cavalry and the U. S. Seventh Division in the north to a distance of 25 air miles.

North Korea's 100,000-man invasion army in the south was in a state of mass flight bordering on a debacle. One of the enemy's division generals was taken prisoner.
The former Red-held cities of Kumchon, Yongdok, Andong and many others fell before the sweeping Allied advances.

But it was at Seoul, Korea's 500-year-old national capital, that the climactic phase of the war appeared to have begun.

From that embattled metropolis,
which he described as a "blooming,
blazing hell," International News Service War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan reported at 7:52 Monday evening (5:52 a. m. EST) that the Marines had reached Duksoo Palace.

The ancient seat of Korea's kings was reached, the dispatch said, after day-long house-to-house combat against Red troops resorting to every conceivable trick of warfare in their death struggle to prevent

Say Smoke From Canada Turned Sun Purple Color

The riders of the purple sage would have felt right at home in this chilly area yesterday.

It was so cold that the sun turned purple.

But scientists said that actually it wasn't the near-record cold spell which made Old Sol take on a violet tinge which authorities termed
"unique."

The "phenomenon" was observed
while a tremendous pall of smoke from Canadian forest fires was darkening three-fourths of Pen-sylvania, the Great Lakes region,
the Ohio valley, Southwestern New England and places as far south as Fairmont, W. Va.

Scientists theorized that the overcast of smoke, somewhat light in the Philadelphia region, was the factor which caused the sun to assume its strange and unprecedented color.

I. M. Levitt, in Philadelphia, explained that "any kind of particles in the sky—dust, smoke or ice—can cause a change in the coloration of the sun as well as of the sky itself."

A. Richman, a former resident of this community, and who since his

Fireman Cut on Nose; Blaze at West Bristol

A fireman, member of Bristol Consolidated Company, was slightly injured this morning, at 9:15, when that company and America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., responded to a call at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Joseph Tillo, Second and Leedom avenues, West Bristol.

The injured man is Albert Taylor, who was cut on the nose when ceiling of the kitchen gave way beneath the weight of another fireman, feet of the latter striking Taylor on the nose. First aid treatment was given by firemen at the scene.

The fire is said to have been caused by an overheated chimney, when a wood fire was started in a kitchen range. There was some smoke damage, and it was necessary to tear away a portion of the walls and ceiling to get at the source of the difficulty.

Council decided to get a pumping

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

The Chinese Communists said
United States planes had hit Manchurian territory again. They threatened to smash any attempt
"to intrude over our territory
again."

China will be a major topic in the United Nations this week. Today the General Assembly debates
the right of the Nationalists to represent China, and some observers feel that the Nationalists will in time be unseated and the Communist regime admitted. Tomorrow the Security Council will again consider Peiping's demand to be presented during the discussion on Formosa.

Christianity is being reformed in China. Different sects are being united and financial aid from abroad has been ordered eliminated.

Moscow was said to have directed its European satellites to create an agricultural proletariat, with all farmers working for the state on super-collective farms.

A demand for the return to Germany of Russian-held East Prussia and Polish-held areas was voiced by Federal Minister Kaiser as part of Bonn's campaign to take the propaganda initiative from the

URGED TO GET BUSY AND OPPOSE LAW

Justices of Peace and Magistrates Told to Fight the Pending Legislation

ELIMINATES OFFICES

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 25—Members of the Bucks County Magistrates Association were urged to get busy and aid in defeating the pending legislation which will be introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature in January. The proposed legislation would abolish the offices of justice of peace and magistrates. It was suggested that Assemblymen Wilson L. Yeakel,
Perkasie, and Marvin L. Keller, Newtown, and the Democratic candidates be contacted regarding their views.

The speaker was Walter Scheetz,
president of the association.

Asserting that "It doesn't cost anything to keep a Justice of the Peace, why throw him out of office," President Scheetz, at a meeting of the Bucks County Magistrates' Association, here, Thursday evening, said: "If the office of Justice of the Peace is abolished, it will cost the taxpayers of Riegelsville borough additional taxes to maintain a police recorder or magistrate to take our places."

Speaking to about 30 members of the minor judiciary, Scheetz,
who recently attended a meeting of the Pennsylvania Magistrates' Association, said: "The taxpayers of Riegelsville and other boroughs
in the county would have to pay a man a full-time salary to do their duties."

"The Two Justices of the Peace
in our borough cost the taxpayers nothing. I know that Atlantic City,

APPROXIMATELY 500 TURN OUT TO HEAR ISSUES OF THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN IN PENNSYLVANIA DISCUSSED BY SPEAKERS

(Special to Courier)
DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 25—Approximately 500 men and women turned out Saturday to hear the issues of the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania discussed by several members of the State ticket at a mass meeting in the Doylestown Armory.

The capacity crowd heard the prediction made by Bucks County Republican Chairman A. Harry Clayton that the Republican ticket headed by Governor James H. Duff, U. S. Senator, and Judge John S.
Fine for Governor, will receive a majority of better than 12,000 in Bucks county in November.

Governor Duff delivered broadsides against President Truman; U. S. Senator Francis J. Myers, his opponent in this election; Richard Dilworth, the Democratic candidate for Governor, whom he termed "Dizzy"; and the handling of foreign affairs in Washington.

Governor Duff was introduced by State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor, who described him as "the best Governor I have ever served under,
a man with the courage of his convictions."

Governor Duff paid a tribute to State Senator Edward B. Watson
and to State Chairman Taylor, both of whom, he said, have been a great help to him during his administration in Harrisburg.

The Governor reviewed his record

in Harrisburg and pointed with pride to the State Highway program as "a program of action, which my opponent, 'Dizzy' fails to remember."

Governor Duff said that "the Democrat party knows nothing except waste of money, and unless there is a halt called soon, it will be the last call for dinner."

Referring to President Truman's foreign policy, Governor Duff continued:

"Korea is no police action. Instead of taking the people into its confidence, the Truman administration is handing out 'soothing syrup' and propaganda. The threat of the third world war is growing larger every day. We are open to an attack on a scale never before known to man."

"I have it on good authority that 14,000 American boys are already killed, wounded or missing in action in Korea. That is more than all of the soldiers that took part in Pickett's charge in the Battle of Gettysburg."

"Do you think it is necessary?
We are in graver danger today of losing the American way of life than in any time in history. General Eisenhower just recently said that intelligent planning would have prevented this Korean situation."

"And yet today, the real serious spot is right in Europe. The Red

SIGNS OF UNREST

After nearly 20 years of living under a paternalistic government, the American people are showing signs of unrest. This condition exists in all parts of the country and in all classes of society. The people have grown weary of sham and pretense, and of promises instead of performance.

For years it seemed a wonderful idea to many to be able to place all their burdens on the government, but the realization is dawning that instead of being lightened the burdens have increased. The nation was never in graver peril.

After 18 years, voters and taxpayers are showing definite signs of anxiety, mixed with anger. News from Korea is bringing the people face to face with the actual utility of the Washington planners when the going became tough.

The American people realize now they have been misled and their safety jeopardized by claims of military strength sufficient to halt any enemy before the breakfast bacon could become overdone on the kitchen stove.

More than $100,000,000,000 has been spent for military preparedness since World War II, with results that are apparent in every headline. The people have become disgusted with the policy of spend and spend, always for political purposes, with reckless disregard of the nation's safety. In this uprising political alignments are forgotten. The aroused portion of the populace is composed not of Republicans or Democrats, but of patriotic Americans hoping to save something from the socialistic wreck.

RELATED CONCERN

Going after the communists, which President Truman once denounced as a red herring across the trail, is now a common habit. Everybody's doing it. On the New York waterfront the government is screening the crews of ocean-going ships and thumbing out all those who are reds.

One unnamed ship in port was combed, forty men were taken off and told to high tail it out of there. And high time. Reds are heavily infiltrated in the maritime unions under the leadership of Harry Bridges on the west coast.

That situation has long been a national security worry. If the nation's merchant ships aren't safe from sabotage, all sorts of things can happen. A strike might be staged at a crucial time that would spell the difference between defeat and victory. The Panama Canal could be immobilized by a few bombs.

And how do they know whether a man on a ship is a commy or not? It seems that there are constant quarrels among the reds, that the Trotskyites bawl out the Stalinists and the Stalinists tell on the Trotskyites, etc. Undoubtedly some of the reds have the caniness to keep their opinions to themselves and so go undetected. But it is of the utmost importance that watchfulness be continued so that every one of them is finally discovered and uprooted.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol May 15, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly news paper published at Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

Arthur Hagerman, who drives the Adams Express delivery wagon, narrowly escaped being run over by the cars at the Washington street railroad crossing on last Friday afternoon. The gates were up and Arthur drove on the tracks just in front of an eastbound train. The locomotive just missed the tail-board of the wagon.

Patrick Barrett has purchased from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the houses on Garden street which stand in the line of the proposed new road.

Miss Helen Bartine, former teacher at the Badger school, passed an examination in Philadelphia and has been granted a principal's certificate.

A subscription is being taken for the purpose of making much needed repairs to the bicycle path above the Hollow bridge.

M. A. Downes, of Bristol, the Washington street butcher, while driving from Trenton, Wednesday evening of last week, had his leg broken by the scaring of his horse in Morrisville. He had just crossed the bridge and passed the toll house when the animal became unmanageable and started to run. When it came to the bridge over the creek, just before Mill street, it reached, the horse attempted to veer over to the footwalk, on the right, and dashed the wagon against the sharp end of the railing.

The railing smashed in the dashboard and struck Mr. Downes' leg, breaking it and throwing him out.

The old Dorrance grist and saw mill, at the foot of Pond street, was burned last night and completely gutted, although the stone side walls are still standing. The fire was of incendiary origin, as evidences were discovered that proved the place was set on fire.

The alarm was turned in about 10:15 o'clock, and for a time it looked as though a general conflagration would occur. A stiff breeze was blowing at the time and burning cinders were carried to adjacent properties. Several squares away residents were compelled to use garden hose to extinguish incipient flames caused by flying sparks. After an hour's hard work, the firemen had the fire under control. For the first time in six years the steamer was brought into service. A contention arose during the progress of the fire by the refusal of one of the members of a company to obey the orders of the chief to take the steamer to the basin to relieve the plugs. The fire assumed such proportions, and the danger was so threatening, that the Burlington fire department was notified and was in readiness to come to the assistance of the Bristol firemen. Mr. Doron had steam up on his ferryboat and the crew in readiness.

The Dorrance mill was one of the historical buildings of the town and was the oldest in the county. An old record says it was built by Daniel Carpenter in 1701. An undershot wheel supplied the power for the flouring mill. The mill had been idle for a number of years, the last occupants being the Rogers Brothers.

The Travel Club of Bristol held its final meeting for the season at the home of Mrs. Edward Swain, on Radcliffe street, last Friday afternoon. An extra programme was arranged, and a number of invited guests were present. . . . Cities on the coast of France engaged the attention of the club during the winter.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The ALP and New York

Washington, Sept. 25. — The factor in the New York political situation that most harasses Democratic leaders in the State and nation has had almost no publicity. This is the nomination by the concededly Communist - controlled American Labor party not only of its own candidate for governor but also for United States senator.

For obvious reasons the Republicans as well as the Democrats shrink from revealing fully the situation this action creates. Each is reluctant to admit the extraordinary dominance which the Communists have achieved in the political scenery of the greatest State in the Union — a State that has more than 6,000,000 voters and an electoral vote of 47 — one tenth of the whole. But, this state of affairs ought to be of concern to every American citizen everywhere.

As to the complete Communist control of the American Labor party there is no doubt whatever. It was because of this control its non - Communist members broke away some years ago and formed themselves into the Liberal party. But the ALP held more than half its original strength and is today the best disciplined, most compact political entity in the United States. It regularly polls about 380,000 votes in New York city and nearly 85,000 outside the city. This approximately half a million voters vote as one man and rigidly follow the "party line."

Sometimes they nominate candidates of their own; sometimes they make no nominations and often they endorse the Democratic candidates. There has been no occasion when they have endorsed Republican candidates. Considering these facts, there seems much logic in the claim that when the Democratic state majority has been less than the known ALP vote, Democratic success would have been impossible without ALP votes. The election figures make this difficult to deny and impossible to disprove.

The most recent example was in the senatorial election last year when Senator Herbert Lehman, Democrat, ran against Mr. John Foster Dulles, Republican. Mr. Lehman was elected by approximately 192,000 votes. The ALP had no State candidate of its own, but its weight undoubtedly was on the Lehman side. It is true there never was the slightest tinge of Communist toleration about Mr. Lehman. However, the Daily Worker, which lays down the party line, which the ALP so rigidly follows, was violently against Mr. Dulles and highly favorable to Mr. Lehman. Both, because of his own attitude and because he was personally close to Governor Dewey, Mr. Dulles was the chief target of the Communists in the campaign. There seems little room for doubt that no Communist voter cast a ballot for Mr. Dulles and there seems even less doubt that many more ALP voters than the 192,000 constituting the Lehman majority supported him. Certainly, the figures justify the charge made by the Dulles forces that without that support Mr. Lehman would not have been elected.

The ALP has now nominated two obscure men — John T. McManus, for governor, and a Negro historian, W. E. Dubois, for senator. There is no expectation either will be elected but every expectation that each will poll the full ALP vote. In 1949, the only ALP nominee was Mr. Marcantonio, who, as a candidate for mayor, polled in New York City alone 356,406 votes. The connection is that Mr. Lehman (with, of course, no effort on his part) got the great bulk of these votes plus most of the 70,000 ALP votes cast up State. If those votes did not go for Lehman, where did they go? There seems no answer to that question. As the ALP preference for Mr. Lehman, Democrat and New Dealer, over Mr. Dulles, conservative Republican, the ALP did not have to endorse him to make that clear. As the Daily Worker has often explained, the New Deal direction was toward "our goal."

If, this time, the ALP candidates poll only half their potential vote the Republican candidates seem likely to be elected. Aware of this threat, Democratic leaders admit their chances depend upon two things: (1) That because of the increased resentment against Communists the ALP vote will be much smaller than before; (2) that because State candidates are running this time as well as city and national, the total vote will be much heavier than last year and thus the ALP total will be less decisive. As to why the ALP should nominate candidates this time the answer seems to be that not to do so and not to poll the required percentage of the vote would mean loss of its position as a separate political party.

When Your Tot Tells You Things

By CARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FORTUNATE the child of any age whose parents listen eagerly to the accounts of his experiences, who consider anything of deep interest to him worthy of their rapt attention.

When your child returns home at the end of his first day at school, listen eagerly to his report of the day's experiences. If he does not volunteer to talk about his school day, a few apt questions might bring good response. On the other hand, if you press too hard with questions, you might make him less ready to talk about school. Your best way is always to listen attentively and appreciatively when he does talk.

At the dinner hour when the whole family is present, he might be most ready to talk of his day at school. However, you must not allow him to overshadow any younger children with constant talk of school. You need to cultivate a balance.

Back Up Teacher's Authority

Nearly always the child in the first, second or third grade idolizes his teacher. Her ways are always right and wonderful. If either parent makes a statement which this child supposes to be in contradiction to a statement by the teacher, the child may say, "Oh, no. Miss Corrigan says. . . . When our children were very young we always replied, "Miss Corrigan must be right."

As these children grew older and we helped them with lessons, we tried never to teach ways of doing or saying anything, as in arithmetic, in conflict with the teacher's methods.

When one of the children criticized the teacher to us, we tried to come to her defense, whenever we could do so conscientiously. If, as happened in a few rare instances, we felt the teacher was wholly wrong, as in ways of discipline, we said nothing, but simply let the child talk, so long as the talk was not abusive.

Parents Must Cooperate

We parents can do great harm if we blow up and speak critically of the teacher, even when we feel sure she is entirely wrong. After all, the children will continue as pupils of this teacher. Besides, we don't want to demonstrate to our child that we make judgments on the basis of only one side of the evidence.

If we consider the matter of major importance, we should wait a few days until we are sure we have ourselves well under control, and then go to talk over the matter with the teacher. I don't recall a single instance when either Mrs. Myers or I felt it desirable to see the teacher as a result of such a report by the child. On the contrary, I recall that one of the teachers, complained about by one of our children in the fifth grade, proved later to be greatly admired by this child and, in our judgment, to be one of the ablest teachers this child ever had. (My bulletin, "Parents Can Help the Child Succeed at School," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.)

Among the happiest memories we have of our children are of their talk at home, especially at meals, of the interesting things they had learned at school or done in their extra-curricular activities at the junior and senior high school levels. I trust my fellow parents will have like enjoyments with their adolescent children during the school year.

Saturday Wedding Occurs In St. Michael's Church

TORRESDALE, Sept. 25. — St. Michael's R. C. Church, here, on Saturday at the hour of one was the scene of a wedding which united Miss Helen Dawiczak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ignace Dawiczak, Edgington, and Mr. Edward Niemczak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Niemczak, of the same community. The Rev. Leon Jaworski, chaplain of Nazareth Academy, here, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was costumed in white satin, fashioned with a jewel neckline, yoke of lace reaching to the shoulders, fitted bodice of satin, button back, and long tapered sleeves. The long skirt stood out at the hips and featured two wide panels of lace which reached from the waistline to the base of the skirt in front. Two similar panels in back ended in the train of the skirt. A beaded tiara was attached to a fingertip veil with two tiers of net edged with four inches of lace. White satin slippers were also worn. She carried a white prayer book on which rested three orchids.

Miss Julia Dawiczak, Philadelphia, a sister of the bride served as maid of honor. She was attired in a gown which had strapless underslip of aquatone satin; over this was worn a gown of net styled with a V neckline, short sleeves, fitted bodice, wide sash, button front and long full skirt of net. A matching picture hat and slippers were worn. Her bouquet was composed of mixed blossoms.

A bridesmaid, Miss Florence Scallski, Philadelphia, niece of the bridegroom, wore an identically styled gown, hat and slippers in blue as those of the maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

Mr. Anthony Niemczak served his brother as best man. Sister Placide, of Nazareth Academy, rendered organ selections. Vocal selections were sung by the Sisters' choir of the Academy.

Mrs. Dawiczak, mother of the bride, chose a dress of navy crepe with matching hat and accessories. The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Niemczak, selected a dress of grey crepe with matching hat and accessories. They wore contrasting corsages.

A dinner was served to members of the immediate families in the bridal couple's newly built home in Edgington. Mr. and Mrs. Niemczak are graduates of Bensalem township high school. The bride is employed in the office of Edgington Metal Specialties, Co. The bridegroom is employed by Philco Corp., Croydon.

The Marines, Kaplan reported, captured Seoul's city prison where they found a cache of U. S. Army insignia and pistol cases in the jail office. The Leathernecks were told by some of Seoul's million residents that 300 American prisoners of war had been confined in the jail until recently.

These persons said the Americans were believed to have been moved northward out of Seoul before the North Koreans killed all the other prisoners in the jailhouse.

hose, tore a rack off the walls, and broke a mirror in the rest rooms. O'Donnell, however, stood outside by the car while the others were in the station and took no part in the vandalism. The others in the group, including O'Donnell's older brother, were sentenced to stiff prison sentences some time ago.

O'Donnell had served 23 months in the navy before the crime and was in the navy at the time.

"The court is giving you this break so there won't be any blemish on your re-enlisting in the navy," Judge Biester said, "but if we find you did not go back in the navy we will bring you back and put you in jail for the full year."

Mr. Oriolo and bride are spending two weeks in Florida. Leaving Bristol the bride wore a wine colored suit, black accessories, and an orchid corsage. The two will be at home within a few weeks at 103 Taylor street.

Mr. Oriolo, who graduated from Bristol high school, served in the U. S. Navy for two years during World War II. He gave his attendants marcasite tie pins. His bride, a graduate of St. Ann's commercial school, presented her attendants with rhinestone necklaces and earrings.

one full time salaried police magistrate and the people are not getting the prompt service they did under the Justice of the Peace system."

Plans for a civil law class, to be held in conjunction with the Public Service Institute, of the Department of Public Instruction, were discussed. Justice of the Peace Fred L. Bickel, a former instructor, was named chairman of the committee to make arrangements.

Probation Officer Horace E. Gwinner, speaking on his duties, reported 271 non-support cases handled in 1949. 13 illegitimate children and 22 indigent parents' cases were also cared for. The total number of non-support and parole cases amounted to 414. The sum of more than $100,000 was paid out in non-support cases during 1949.

He warned the 'Squires that it is a good practice before issuing a warrant and making an arrest on a husband, or father, to ascertain whether there is a support order against him or outstanding in any other court, including Bucks county, or out of the State.

"If he is already under a Court support order from another court, you can't arrest him again until that matter has been cleared up," Gwinner explained how to fill out transcripts, bonds, cash bail, recognition, surety and pointed out the danger of making defects in them. Two transcripts were found defective this term of court and the defendants discharged.

Treasurer Lawrence Kepner, Haycock township, reported $63.15 in the treasury. The October meeting will be a dinner-meeting.

Ludwig A. Fetzner, Hartsville, was thanked for being the host at a clam bake recently at his York road estate.

Langhorne Man and A Bristol Girl Are Wed

Accompanied by her father, Mr. Angelo Giagnacovo, of 310 Brook street, Miss Margaret Giagnacovo made her way down the aisle of St. Ann's R. C. Church yesterday for her marriage at 2:30 to Mr. Peter Roberts, Jr., of Park avenue, Langhorne. The Rev. Peter Pinci officiated at the ceremony uniting Miss Giagnacovo and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Roberts, Langhorne. Vocal music was provided by Miss Theresa Lomma, Brook street.

Selected by the localite for a bridal costume was a gown of white satin, with low, round neckline. Chantilly lace formed a berth type collar, and edged the long, pointed sleeves. The full skirt swept to a long train. The cap of Chantilly lace had strings of flesh-toned pearls as trim. Clusters of orange blossoms appeared at the sides. Slippers were satin, and the bride carried a trio of orchids, two in lavender tone, and one white with a purple lip. Stephanotis was effectively used with these.

Miss Jean DiRenzo, 323 Lincoln avenue, the maid of honor, and Miss Ann Louise Fandozzi, Farragut avenue, bridesmaid, who are cousins of the bride, were her attendants. They wore strapless gowns of pink satin, the skirts being cut full. Jackets had three-quarter sleeves. Their pink, open-crown hats were of satin and tulle. The two wore silver slippers, and carried bouquets of white and pink gladioli. The flower girl, Jane Freet, 351 Monroe street, a niece of the bride, wore a dress of medium blue satin and Chantilly lace patterned like that worn by the bride, but having short sleeves. With this was detachable sleeves. Her colonial bouquet was of white and lavender gladioli, and she wore white slippers.

Nephews of the bride, Mr. Anthony Freet, Monroe street, and Mr. Angelo Giagnacovo, Jefferson avenue, served as best man and usher, respectively.

Before leaving for two weeks motor trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts received 300 guests at the American Legion country club home, Langhorne. The bride travelled in a navy blue suit, and matching accessories. Her hat, also in navy blue, had a plume of navy and poudre blue. White gloves were worn, also a navy blue topper.

Mrs. Roberts, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black ensemble; while Mrs. John D'Angelo, sister of the bride, was attired in a black dress and accessories to match. Both wore lavender orchids as corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will reside with the bridegroom's parents in Langhorne. Mr. Roberts, who served in the U. S. Army for three years during World War II, gave his attendants marcasite tie pins. The bride presented her adult attendants with gold necklaces and bracelets, and the flower girl with a gold cross and chain.

Two Paroles Granted By Judge Edward Biester

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 25. — Judge Edward G. Biester Thursday granted two paroles, one to a former Marine, who expects to be called back into the service, and the other to a New York husband so that he can support his Tullytown wife and child.

John Mixner, 29, Bristol Terrace, who was sentenced to serve 18 months on an involuntary manslaughter charge, and served about one-half, was granted a parole. A member of the Bristol Marine Reserve Corps, he expects to be called back to duty next Tuesday.

The fine and costs of prosecution have been paid.

Achille Aliberta, 22, Yonkers, N. Y., who failed to comply with a support order, was paroled so that he can support a Tullytown young mother and their daughter. He is under a $20 a week support order which was made July 5 by the Court.

Commenting on a letter which the defendant's mother wrote to the Court, Judge Biester said: "You may tell your mother that her letter had nothing to do with your being released. In fact, her letter would have aggravated the situation more than anything else."

"Your mother inferred that you were 'railroaded.' Now we know better and that sort of accusation hurts you instead of mitigating your case," Judge Biester said sharply.

"I have a brother, who is missing in Korea, and I am sure my mother was upset when she wrote that letter," commented the young defendant.

On the machine with him was Charles DeRatto, 1138 Fourth avenue, Croydon. DeRatto was not hurt. The accident was investigated by Constable Charles Meyers, of Bristol township.

BALK BY SPENCER GIVES 2ND WARD A 6 TO 5 VICTORY

A balk by Jack Spencer gave the Second Ward A. C. a well earned 6-5 victory over Franklin A. C. yesterday morning in the opening game of the final series of the Bristol Suburban League played on Memorial field.

Spencer was charged with his balk while attempting to give an intentional pass to Gene Barbetta. It occurred in the sixth inning which started with Second Ward trailing, 5-4.

"Mike" Perrone, the first batter had swatted a single to right but died trying to stretch the hit into a double. "Lou" Pozzullo hit safely to right and "Nate" Chichiletti singled past Palumbo. "Sam" Sottile shot a single to center and Pozzullo crossed. Chichiletti went to third on the hit and on the throw-in, Sottile made second. The signal went up to give a pass to Gene Barbetta to load the bases. On the fourth ball, Spencer committed his balk, allowing Chichiletti to cross with the winning run. That ended the scoring for the day.

An excellent job at relief hurling by "Tommy" Sagolla actually accounted for the Warders' win. Sagolla stepped to the hill after Franklin had battered "Ernie" Pinelli from the hill in the third inning with four runs and five hits. In getting credit for the winning, Sagolla gave the Franklin team but one hit, a double by "Dezzy" DeLise in the fifth. The only run off his delivery came with two out in the sixth when Carbelli missed a roller at third and Pinelli committed a three-base error in dropping Sam Imperato's easy fly.

Spencer gave up a total of nine hits. One of these was a home run clout by "Nate" Chichiletti with the bases bare in the first inning. "Sam" Sottile, in addition to driving in the tying run in the sixth, drove in a pair of tallies in the fourth with a mighty triple.

Frank Barbetta drove in the first Franklin run with a three-bagger in the second. He crossed on a hit by Imperato. In the third, an error and hit by Palumbo and Bert Barbetta gave Franklin a 4-1 edge. This lead was good until Sottile made his triple in the fourth.

ANDY ACCARDI MAY NOT PLAY TONIGHT

Bristol High may be without the services of its pass-throwing back, Andy Accardi, when it stacks up against Trenton Catholic High tonight on Dunn field, Trenton. The game was originally scheduled for last Friday night but called due to inclement weather.

Accardi was injured in a practice drill, Saturday, having sprained his wrist. It is doubtful whether Coach Harry McClister will use Accardi and will most likely shift Dick Puchino to the half-back post. In the Hathboro fray, Bristol's "Bill" Gillies was injured so he will also see the action from the bench.

Accardi's injury means that the Bristol starting backfield will be composed of "Lou" Loeffler, Alan Holston, Puchino, and Ercole Petrizz. The line from left end to right end, respectively, will be composed of: Charlie Rauch, Bill Gratz, William White, Dan Davis, Tex Ciagnacova, Charlie Foltz and Ralston Hedrick.

Last season, Coach "Johnny" Hoffman's proteges handed the Warriors a 32-7 licking.

ST. ANN'S REACHES FINALS IN BATTLE; BEATS MICHARSKI

St. Ann's A. A. reached the finals of the Trenton Industrial League yesterday afternoon by whipping the Micharski nine, 9-7, on Wetzel field. The "Saints" will now engage the Atwood team in a three-game series. Two of these games will be played the next week-end on Wetzel field, Trenton.

Paul Cervellero was the winning hurler of yesterday's tilt. Cervellero relieved Dave Muth in the sixth inning after the Trenton team had taken a 7-6 lead. St. Ann's tied the score in the top of the seventh.

In the eighth, the Bristol team took a one-run lead when "Lou" Sassi walked and scampered to third on a hit by Bert Barbetta. He came home on "Lou" Mari's fielder's choice to Manczak. The "Saints" added an extra run in the ninth on a pair of miscues and Cervellero's hit which scored Fred Barbetta.

George Uhaze was the losing hurler. Uhaze was given ragged support, his mates being charged with nine errors. In between, St. Ann's socked his slants for 11 bingles with Bert Barbetta having three out of five. Cervellero helped his own cause with two for two while Fred Barbetta crossed the plate three times. "Mincey" Manczak, had three of Micharski's 12 hits off the two St. Ann's hurlers.

WALLY CAMPBELL SETS TRACK RECORD

LANGHORNE, Sept. 25 — Wally Campbell, American stock car champion, from Trenton, N. J., zoomed to a new track record yesterday as he won the 100-mile National Modified Stock Car racing championship on the Langhorne Speedway in one hour, 17 minutes and 41.21 seconds. Previously the 100-mile record was held by Pepper Cunningham, of Trenton, and Red Byron, Atlanta, Ga., at 1:20, 1949.

In yesterday's event, Jack Hardley, of Hatfield, Pa., finished second, more than a mile behind Campbell. The two were the only ones to finish the 100-mile grind, although 68 cars started and 24 were still in the running when the flag came down on the winner. The other positions were decided on the place the drivers held at the time of the flagdown.

Two accidents took place, but both drivers escaped uninjured. Bill Dean, Baltimore, turned over on the fourth turn near the 30-mile mark. Later, veteran driver Pete Frazee, of Rahway, N. J., crashed through the fence on the fourth turn.

Originally scheduled for Aug. 20, the race, sponsored by the National Association for Stock Car Racing, was postponed until yesterday by bad weather.
